

Specialist Provisions: Transition

Dear Parent or Carer,

I hope you and your family are well during this challenging time. We are aware that you might have questions about how your child's transition will be managed during the period of school closure. As you'll be fully aware, we do not yet have concrete information about when or how schools will reopen. You will appreciate that when schools do reopen our focus will remain on minimising the risk of infection and ensuring that our children, families and staff stay safe, which means that schools may operate differently for a period of time.

Nonetheless, we are focused on ensuring the wellbeing and continuing learning for children and young people throughout their transition. Headteachers are currently working on a transition programme which will focus on ensuring that families have all of the information we can give them to support their child's transition. Further information will be shared with you in the coming weeks.

Kind regards,

Anna Gray

Quality Improvement Manager for Special Schools and ASLS

Communities and Families

City of Edinburgh Council